Grading:

The student’s grade will be based on their grades on the mid-term examination (in two parts) and a final examination (40% combined), a group prevention presentation (40%) and regular contribution to class discussion (20%). The class-work grade also will depend on unexcused absences being no greater than two classes during the semester, and your grade on one online quiz on the APA(2013) Gun Policy document read at that point in the course. Extra credit may be available for research participation or application paper.

1. Prevention Presentation: Students will work in groups of about 6 to create a presentation in class of the most recent research and recommendations for the prevention of adolescent violence. Rubrics for presentation will be given out in the week prior to mid-term exams. The presentations will be a half hour long and accompanied by slides. The following are only a few possibilities of group presentations: (1) prevention of bullying; (2) prevention of dating violence; (3) prevention of psychopathy; (4) prevention of gun violence; (5) prevention of adolescent suicide; (6) prevention of fighting; (7) prevention of gang violence. This group presentation will be organized in class, and this is an MSGE.

2. Mid-term Examination. The mid-term examination will be given in two parts; part 1 given on line, at our elms site on March 28, and part 2 online at our elms site on March 30. The first part, online March 28, is a 100-item multiple choice examination on the text and slides, and will focus on the nature, trends, and causes of violence among adolescents. A second examination, March 30, is a fifty item multiple choice examination, and is based on the articles read to that point in time. Both parts, together, are worth 40% of the grade (i.e., the average of both parts 1 and 2). These examinations are MSGE.

3. There will be 1, 20 item quiz given online. Your grade on this quiz will contribute to your classwork grade.

Academic Dishonesty:

It is assumed that all students understand the consequences of academic dishonesty at the University of Maryland. If you do not, consult the undergraduate catalog or course registration booklet to become familiar with how cheating, fabrication, facilitation of academic dishonesty, and plagiarism are defined by the University. I will not hesitate to bring matters of academic dishonesty before the appropriate authorities.

Students with Disabilities:

If you are a student with a documented physical or learning disability from the Office of Disability Support Service on Campus, please contact me as soon as possible so that we can make arrangements for required accommodations.

Religious Observance:

It is the policy of the University that students not be penalized for religious observances. Students will be allowed, whenever possible, to make up academic assignments that are missed due to such observances. It is the student’s responsibility to contact the instructor at least one week before the absence, at which time arrangements will be made for make-up work or examinations.

Assignments:

Reading assignments are given for each class. Students should be prepared to discuss the articles or chapters on the dates assigned. Group work, individual work, or quizzes may be given on the days on which readings are assigned.

Course Evaluations:

As a member of our academic community, students have a number of important responsibilities. One of these responsibilities is to submit course evaluations each term through CourseEvalUM in order to help faculty and administrators improve teaching and learning at Maryland. All information submitted to CourseEvalUM is confidential. Campus will notify you when CourseEvalUM is open for you to complete your evaluations for fall semester courses. Please go directly to the website (www.courseevalum.umd.edu) to complete your evaluations. By completing all of your evaluations each semester, you will have the privilege of accessing online, at Testudo, the evaluation reports for the thousands of courses for which 70% or more students submitted their evaluations.

Missed single class due to illness:
Once during a semester, a student’s self-authored note will be accepted as an excuse for missing a minor scheduled grading event in a single class session if the note documents the date of the illness, acknowledgement from the student that information provided in the note is correct, and a statement that the student understands that providing false information is a violation of the Code of Student Conduct. Students are expected to attempt to inform the instructor of the illness prior to the date of the missed class.

Major scheduled grading events:

Major Scheduled Grading Events (MSGE) are indicated on the syllabus. The conditions for accepting a self-signed note do not apply to these events. Written, signed documentation by a health care professional, or other professional in the case of non-medical reasons (see below) of a University-approved excuse for the student’s absence must be supplied. This documentation must include verification of treatment dates and the time period for which the student was unable to meet course requirements. Providers should not include diagnostic information. Without this documentation, opportunities to make up missed assignments or assessments will not be provided.

Non-consecutive, medically necessitated absences from multiple class sessions:

Students who throughout the semester miss multiple, non-consecutive class sessions due to medical problems must provide written documentation from a health care professional that their attendance on those days was prohibited for medical reasons.

Non-medical excused absences:

According to University policy, non-medical excused absences for missed assignments or assessments may include illness of a dependent, religious observance, involvement in University activities at the request of University officials, or circumstances that are beyond the control of the student. Students asking for excused absence for any of those reasons must also supply appropriate written documentation of the cause and make every attempt to inform the instructor prior to the date of the missed class.
