How to Get Published: Guidance from Emerging and Established Scholars

The Annual Meeting of the American Educational Research Association
Monday, April 16, 2012, 8:00am-12:00noon
Fairmont Waterfront / Waterfront Ballroom C

Director: Patricia Alexander, University of Maryland, College Park
Staff: Alexandra List, Sandra Loughlin, and Emily Grossnickle

8:00  The Experiences and Insights of Emergent Scholars

Three exceptional young scholars will share their personal stories about tackling the demands of the publishing in academic venues and building their curricular vitae, while dealing with the other facets of their personal and professional lives. Among the themes that these young scholars will address are (a) finding time to think and write; (b) forging a recognizable program of research; (c) dealing with the competing missions of the academy; and (d) balancing personal and professional lives.

Jeffery A. Greene, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill
How to Publish: Institution and Career Fit

Matthew McCrudden, Victoria, University of Wellington, New Zealand
Be a Productive Writer: Goal-Focused Writing

Panayiota Kendeou, Neapolis University Pafos, Cyprus
Academia: Striving for Equilibrium

9:00  Question and Answer Period with Emerging Scholars

9:30  BREAK (15 minutes)

9:45  Learning from the Best: Hearing from Established Scholars I

Five senior scholars will specifically address topics related to the conceptualization, development, submission, and revision of scholarly writings. In fact, each senior scholar was expressly invited to speak to a topic that reflects their editorial experiences and international research reputations.

Patricia A. Alexander, University of Maryland
Keys to Framing Your Research

Gregory Hancock, University of Maryland
Top 10 Ways to Annoy Your Manuscripts’ Reviewers (and How Not To)

10:25  Question and Answer Period I with Established Scholars

10:45  Learning from the Best: Hearing from Established Scholars II

Diane Schallert, University of Texas, Austin
Targeting and Selecting Appropriate Journals

Sofie Loyens, Erasmus University Rotterdam, Netherlands
Identifying Viable International Venues for Publication

Patricia B. Elmore, Southern Illinois University
Ethical Issues and Understanding the Review Process

11:35  Question and Answer Period II with Established Scholars