PREFACE

A MESSAGE FROM DR. DONNA L. WISEMAN, DEAN, OFFICE OF INTERNATIONAL INITIATIVES, COLLEGE OF EDUCATION

October 1, 2010

Dear College of Education community,

It gives me great pleasure to inform you about the completion of this new, comprehensive, and innovative directory on external funding resources, in the United States and world-wide; fellowships and scholarships concerning global and comparative education; international education and cultural exchange; study abroad and training, among other key areas. The objective of the directory is twofold. The first is to provide our faculty and scholars with research assistance and to help them locate needed funding resources. The second objective is to assist our graduate students identify dissertation grants, fellowships, scholarships, teaching assistantships and internships.

Dr. J. Carlos Manduley, a Visiting Professor, Department of Educational Leadership, Higher Education and International Education (EDHI), took it upon himself to undertake this important and cumbersome project for our college. The project has been under the aegis of the College of Education’s Office of International Initiatives. Dr Manduley has been responsible for coordinating and compiling this most extensive directory for almost one year. This last spring, Dr. Manduley taught EDHI 788-T “International Education and Cultural Exchange.” After his class ended, two of his doctoral students at EDHI, graciously volunteered to assist him in this endeavor. The students are: Cheryl P. Manns and William Michael Jester. We want to thank Ms. Manns and Mr. Jester for their work and commitment.

This directory, which encompasses 2010-2012 academic years, is particularly timely for U.S. in our college community as well as in our university’s vision and strategic plan. We believe that global understanding and international experiences are an imperative in the 21st century. International borders are melting and global connections are intensifying. Every individual in our college needs to develop global competencies—in language skills, international research experiences, and cross-cultural understanding. International experiences and skills increase personal and community capacities and generate new opportunities which impact positively life, work, and career. As one of Maryland’s leading higher education institution, the University and our college, support this directory as a positive way to expand international opportunities for meeting academic and personal needs.

With the assistance of this useful reference directory, our college faculty can apply for new and/or increase funds to explore program and project development, or locate resources to allow access to universities abroad for teaching and research activities. The college also invites faculty (funds permitting) to travel to overseas locations to help explore new program options and international partners.

Yours truly,

Dr. Donna L. Wiseman
Dean
College of Education

INTRODUCTION

I am hereby submitting the project completion of the first “Directory of Selected Annotated Bibliographical National and International Funding and Organizational Resources on Global, International & Comparative Education Research, International Education and Cultural Exchange & Study Abroad & Training—2010-2012”.

The purpose of this Useful reference directory is to provide the University of Maryland faculty, administrators, students and staff, as well as administrators, with a new information tool for possible funding sources, organizational and programmatic resources they may consider utilizing in their various academic, teaching, as well as in their faculty, scholar and student-sponsored international research projects and programs. The objective of the directory is to be as concise and informative as possible.

Thus, the directory is organized alphabetically and its purpose is to identify the following information:

- Brief background
- Purpose
- Area(s) of concentration/program emphasis
- Type of program(s) offered
- Main eligibility requirement(s)
- Dollar value of program(s) if known
- Nomination(s) and deadline(s)
- Contact person(s) and email address(es)
- Agency/organization website

It is my sincere hope that this annotated bibliography will be of great value to the College of Education as well as to other colleges, schools, offices and units throughout the University of Maryland campus. Lastly, I would like to offer my sincere thanks to Cheryl P. Manns and W. Mike Jester, doctoral students at EDHI, and my former students this semester at EDU-788-T, “International Educational and Cultural Exchange” who graciously volunteered to be my graduate research assistants on this important project. Thank you both for all your creative ideas, suggestions, valuable time and hard work!

Please feel free for keeping U.S. informed if you find any need for updates, new additions, changes or revisions to this directory.

Again, many thanks.

DISCLAIMER AND STATEMENT ON ORGANIZING THE STRUCTURE OF THE DIRECTORY

DISCLAIMER: Please check with each agency, institution, or organization listed here for the most current information. Programs advertised or offered, deadline dates and other relevant information cited in this directory are subject to change.

Statement on the Directory Structure

The effort to group the organizations that make up this annotated bibliography into discreet categories was not perfect. We chose the following groupings: U.S. Government Departments, Commissions, & Agencies; U.S. Private and Non-Profit Foundations and Organizations; Foreign Governments; Foreign Private and Non-Profit Foundations/ Organizations; Regional Public International Organizations; Regional Multilateral Development Banks; and United Nations, UN Specialized Agencies and Related International Organizations. Some grant programs and funding blurred some boundaries: non-governmental organizations like IIE administer funds for the Fulbright programs funded by the U.S. Government, for example. Thus, this categorization is not always perfect and we encourage readers to provide U.S. with corrections and additions.

The table of contents is organized in the following manner

1. United States Government Departments, Agencies, Commissions, and Foundations
   1.1 Selected Grants: Faculty/Graduate Student Research, Dissertation Study, and Travel
   1.2 Educational/Cultural Exchange: Fellowships, Scholarships, Traineeships, Teaching Assistantships, and Internships
   1.3 Other
2. U.S. Private and Non-Profit Foundations and Organizations
   2.1 Selected Grants: Faculty/Graduate Student Research, Dissertation Study, and Travel
   2.2 Educational/Cultural Exchange: Fellowships, Scholarships, Traineeships, Teaching Assistantships, and Internships
   2.3 Other
3. Foreign Governments
4. Foreign Private and Non-Profit Foundations/ Organizations
   4.1 Grants, Fellowships, Scholarships and Internships
5. Regional Public International Organizations
   5.1 Africa
   5.2 Americas
   5.3 Asia
   5.4 Europe
   5.5 Middle East
6. Regional Multilateral Development Banks
7. United Nations, UN Specialized Agencies and Related International Organizations

1.1.1. U.S. Department of Education

1.1.1.1. Office of Post Secondary Education- Fund for the Improvement of Postsecondary Education (FIPSE)

1.1.1.2. American Overseas Research Centers (AORCS)

1.1.1.3. Fulbright-Hays Programs

Brief background: The U.S. Department of Education administers the Fulbright-Hays Programs (FHPs). The FHPs are different from the Fulbright Programs administered by the U.S. Department of State. Both sets of programs serve international education and national security interests, their specific goals and programs emphases differ.

Purpose: The FHPs serve a domestic agenda. Authorized under Section 101(b) (6) of the Fulbright-Hays Act, they support the internationalization of the nation’s educational infrastructure by strengthening area and foreign language expertise among current and prospective U.S. educators. They do this in two ways: (1) by providing critical, advanced overseas study and research opportunities for area and language experts and faculty-in-training; (2) by offering experiences and resources enabling educators to strengthen their international teaching.

Areas of concentration/program emphasis: internationalization of U.S. higher education institutions

Type of Program(s) offered: The Office of Post-Secondary Education administers the Fund for the Improvement of Postsecondary Education (FIPSE), the Fulbright-Hays Programs and other selected International Education Programs. (please refer to contact Persons (below) for the above-mentioned programs as well as their e-mail addresses)

Main Eligibility Requirements: U.S. citizens and foreign nationals (requirements vary)

Dollar Value of Program(s): vary

Nomination and deadlines: vary

1.2. U.S. Department of State

1.2.1 Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs (ECA)

Brief background: The U.S. State Department’s mission is to administer U.S. foreign policy and maintain diplomatic relations throughout the world. The ECA is responsible for the U.S. government’s overseas educational, cultural and informational programs.

Purpose: (see above)

Area of concentration and emphasis: The ECA is the U.S. Government’s Flagship international educational and cultural exchange program and is supported by the people of the Unites States and partner countries around the world. One of their main concentrations is the renowned Fulbright Program.

The Fulbright Program was established in 1946 under legislation introduced by the late Senator J. William Fulbright of Arkansas The program is sponsored by the U.S. Department of State’s Bureau of Educational and Cultural Exchange. The Fulbright Program awards approximately 7,500 new grants annually. Currently, the program operates in over 155 countries worldwide. The Congressional appropriation for the Program in fiscal year 2009 was 234.9 million. Foreign governments, through bi-national commissions or foundations abroad contributed approximately $60 million directly to the Program in fiscal year 2008. U.S. embassies in more than 100 other countries and cooperating agencies in the U.S. assist with the Fulbright Program overseas.

Type of Program(s) offered: Fulbright Program Fellowships and Scholarships, Fulbright/APS Congressional fellowship Program, the Franklin Fellows Program, individual/open funding grants and the State Department Student Internships Program (SIP), among others.

FULBRIGHT GRANTS FOR STUDENTS
The Fulbright U.S. Student Program offers fellowships for U.S. graduating seniors, graduate students, young professionals and artists to study abroad for one academic year. The Program also includes an important English Teaching Assistant component. The Fulbright Foreign Student Program enables graduate students, young professionals and artists from abroad to conduct research and study in the United States. Some scholarships are renewed after the initial year of study.

The Fulbright Foreign Language Teaching Assistant Program provides opportunities for young English teachers from overseas to refine their teaching skills and broaden their knowledge of American culture and society while strengthening the instruction of foreign languages at colleges and universities in the United States. Website: http://www.flta.fulbrightonline.org/home.html

The International Fulbright Science and Technology Award is a new, internationally competed award for doctoral study at leading U.S. institutions in science, technology, and engineering. Website: http://foreign.fulbrightonline.org/scienceandtech.html

The Fulbright-MTV Fellowships award up to 4 U.S. students the opportunity to study the power of music as a cultural force abroad. Fellows conduct research for one academic year on projects of their own design about a chosen musical aspect. They share their experiences during their Fulbright year via video reports, blogs and podcasts. Website: https://U.S.fulbrightonline.org/thinking_mtv.html

GRANTS FOR SCHOLARS
The Fulbright U.S. Scholar Program sends American scholars abroad to lecture and/or conduct research for up to a year.

The Fulbright Specialists Program sends U.S. faculty and professionals to serve as expert consultants on curriculum, faculty development, institutional planning, and related subjects at overseas academic institutions for a period of 2 to 6 weeks.

The Fulbright Visiting Scholar Program and Fulbright Scholar-in-Residence Program bring foreign scholars to lecture and/or conduct post-doctoral research for up to a year at U.S. colleges and universities.

GRANTS FOR TEACHERS
The Fulbright Teacher Exchange Program supports one-to-one exchanges of teachers from K-12 schools and a small number of post-secondary institutions. Website: http://www.fulbrightteacherexchange.org/

The following Fulbright programs are also being offered as well:

Name of Program (FY2010 awards, pending the availability of funds)

- Global Connections and Exchange Program
- Young Turkey / Young America: A New Relationship for a New Age
- U.S-French Teachers-in-Training Program
- International Visitor Leadership Program Assistance Awards

- E-Teacher Scholarship Program and Professional Development Workshop
- English Access Microscholarship Program
- Intensive Summer Language Institutes for Teachers Program ()
- Critical Language Scholarships for Intensive Summer Institutes ()

Other Selected Fulbright Programs - U. S. Department of State

The Department of State is the U.S. government agency officially responsible to U.S. Congress for management and supervision of the Fulbright Program worldwide. In addition to the Fulbright Student and Scholar programs administered by the (IIE and its division of CIES, several other programs fall under the Fulbright umbrella. Fulbright Teacher Exchange Program (FTEP) provides opportunities for qualified educators to participate in direct exchanges of positions with colleagues from other countries for six weeks, a semester, or a full academic year. In exchanging positions with foreign teachers or administrators, program participants have the opportunity to live and work in the cultures of their host countries, an experience which has benefits for the teachers, their schools, and their communities.

OPEN FUNDING GRANTS/COOPERATIVE AGREEMENT OPPORTUNITIES Requests For Grant Proposals (RFGPs) are published in the Federal Register and announced on Grants.gov and will remain on this site until the closing dates. This site is updated whenever an RFGP opens or closes. Please read each RFGP for the closing date and other information for proposal preparation. If you have questions, staff contact information may be found in the text of each RFGP. Please review the proposal submission announcement below. Please note: ECA strongly encourages organizations interested in applying for the following competitions to submit printed, hard copy applications as outlined in section IV.3f.1. in each of these announcements rather than submitting electronically through Grants.gov. This recommendation is being made as a result of the anticipated high volume of grant proposals that will be submitted via the Grants.gov web portal as part of the Recovery Act stimulus package. As stated in these RFGPs, ECA bears no responsibility for data errors resulting from transmission or conversion processes for proposals submitted via Grants.gov.

1.3.3. U.S. Agency of International Development (USAID)

Brief background: The United States has a long history of extending a helping hand to those people overseas struggling to make a better life, recover from a disaster or striving to live in a free and democratic country. It is this caring that stands as a hallmark of the U.S. around the world -- and shows the world our true character as a nation.

U.S. foreign assistance has always had the twofold purpose of furthering America's foreign policy interests in expanding democracy and free markets while improving the lives of the citizens of the developing world. Spending less than one-half of 1 percent of the federal budget, U.S.AID works around the world to achieve these goals.

USAID’s history goes back to the Marshall Plan reconstruction of Europe after World War Two and the Truman Administration's Point Four Program. In 1961, the Foreign Assistance Act was signed into law and U.S.AID was created by executive order. Since that time, U.S.AID has been the principal U.S. agency to extend assistance to countries recovering from disaster, trying to escape poverty, and engaging in democratic reforms.

U.S.AID is an independent federal government agency that receives overall foreign policy guidance from the Secretary of State. Our Work supports long-term and equitable economic growth and advances U.S. foreign policy objectives by supporting:

- economic growth, agriculture and trade;
- global health; and,
- democracy, conflict prevention and humanitarian assistance.

We provide assistance in five regions of the world:
Purpose: USAID’s history goes back to the Marshall Plan reconstruction of Europe after World War Two and the Truman Administration’s Point Four Program. In 1961, the Foreign Assistance Act was signed into law and U.S.AID was created by executive order.

Since that time, U.S.AID has been the principal U.S. agency to extend assistance to countries recovering from disaster, trying to escape poverty, and engaging in democratic reforms. U.S.AID is an independent federal government agency that receives overall foreign policy guidance from the Secretary of State.

Area(s) of concentration/program emphasis: The agency supports long-term and equitable economic growth and advances U.S. foreign policy objectives by supporting:

- economic growth, agriculture and trade;
- education and capacity-building;
- global health; and,
- democracy, conflict prevention and humanitarian assistance.

Program(s) offered: Education is one of the agency’s major programs. Higher education grants to Africa and other regions of the world. Higher Education for Development (HED) works in close partnership with U.S.AID and the nation’s six presidential higher education associations to support the involvement of higher education in development issues worldwide. HED supports its mission primarily by funding innovative partnerships that partner U.S. colleges or universities with institutions of higher learning in developing nations.

The agency assists developing countries in such areas as: to improve literacy, pre-primary, primary, and secondary levels of education. Teacher training for these levels, as well as adult literacy programs, are important elements of USAID’s education initiatives. Special emphasis is placed on improving educational opportunities for girls, women and other under served and disadvantaged populations. Competitive economies require workers to be able to learn advanced and changing concepts of science and technology, law and governance, and business and on a continuous basis. Without sound conceptual and technical skills acquired in secondary schools, workforce development programs, community colleges, and universities, youth in developing countries will be unable to be as productive and as innovative as they could – and should be. Therefore, in collaboration with American universities and colleges, U.S.AID supports a wide variety of training, workforce development, and higher education... programs that strengthen faculties and administrations in both developing countries and the United States.

Main eligibility requirements: vary

Dollar value of program(s): vary according to the program

Nomination(s) and deadline(s): vary

1.3.3.1. The Scholarships for Education and Economic Development Program

Scholarships for Education and Economic Development (SEED) provides higher education scholarships to U.S. community colleges and universities for poor, disadvantaged, and disabled students from seven countries including Mexico, Haiti, Dominican Republic, Guatemala, El Salvador, Honduras, and Nicaragua. Students receive two-year technical or shorter-term professional training in sectors key to their countries’ social and economic development. The training complements bilateral activities by strengthening human capacity for transformational development.

Please contact the USAID Bureau for Latin America and the Caribbean at pinquaries@USaid.gov. For additional information refer to the Georgetown University’s Center for Intercultural Education and Development (CIED) which administers the program for USAID (refer to this program under the U.S. Private and Non-Profit Profit Foundations and Organizations section on p._______).

1.3.4. Library of Congress

1.3.4.1. Caroline and Erwin Swann Foundation

Brief background: New York advertising executive Erwin Swann (1906-1973) established the Swann Foundation for Caricature and Cartoon in 1967. An avid collector, Swann assembled a large group of original drawings by four hundred artists, spanning two centuries, which his estate bequeathed to the Library of Congress in two installments in 1974 and 1977. Mr. Swann's original purpose was to compile a collection of original drawings by significant humorous. and satiric artists, and to encourage the study of original cartoon and caricature drawings as works of art. The stress on original works serves two purposes: to preserve work that is too often lost or casually destroyed and to afford the opportunity to judge draftsmanship, subtlety of line and wash in the artist's original work instead of the reproduction which, while retaining its message, loses graphic quality

Purpose: The Swann Foundation seeks to award one fellowship annually to assist the fellow in his/her ongoing scholarly research and writing projects in the field of caricature and cartoon

Area(s) of concentration/program emphasis: The applicant's research must be in the field of caricature and cartoon, but there is no limitation regarding the place or time period covered. Since the Fund encourages research in a variety of academic disciplines, there is no restriction upon the university department in which this work is being done, provided the subject pertains to caricature or cartoons.

Program(s) offered: vary

Main Eligibility Requirements: To be eligible, one must be a candidate for an M.A. or Ph.D. degree in a university in the United States, Canada or Mexico and working toward the completion of a dissertation or thesis for that degree, or be engaged in postgraduate research within three years of receiving an M.A. or Ph.D. Although research must be in the field of caricature and cartoon, there is no limitation regarding the place or time period covered. Since the Fund encourages research in a variety of academic disciplines, there is no restriction upon the university department in which this work is being done, provided the subject pertains to caricature or cartoon art. Individuals who are not U.S. residents but who otherwise meet the above academic qualifications may also apply and be considered for a fellowship, contingent upon the applicant's visa eligibility

Dollar Value of Program(s): $15,000

Nomination and deadlines: 2011 application dates have not been announced. Contact Swann Foundation for more information

1.3.5. National Endowment for the Humanities

Brief background: The National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH) is an independent grant making agency of the United States government dedicated to supporting research, education, preservation, and public programs in the humanities.

Purpose: (see above)

Areas of Concentration/program emphasis: Examples of appropriate disciplines for the Japan Fellowships (see below) research include anthropology, economics, geography, history, international relations, linguistics, political science, psychology, public administration, and sociology.
Type of Program(s) offered: The Fellowship for Advanced Social Science research on Japan (jointly administered with the Japan-U.S. Friendship Commission (JU.S.FC). Awards support research on modern Japanese society and political economy, Japan’s international relations, and U.S.-Japan relations.

NEH also invites applications for projects that focus on Afghanistan's history and culture. The special initiative is designed to promote research, education, and public programs about Afghanistan and to encourage United States institutions to assist Afghanistan in efforts to preserve and document its cultural resources. Today Afghanistan is looking to the future as well as the past. The last several years have produced extraordinary progress on political, economic, and physical reconstruction and a renewal of cultural and scholarly activities. Traditional arts, crafts, music, and dance have seen a revival of interest. New opportunities are emerging for Afghan scholars and institutions to collaborate with their counterparts in the United States and other countries, and for scholars, students, and institutions in the United States to rediscover Afghanistan. NEH has long provided support for projects on the history and culture of Afghanistan, including research conducted by American scholars, scholarly translation, preservation and access projects, and educational projects for teachers on the history and culture of Afghanistan. Proposals for the initiative may take the form of projects to preserve and provide access to documents and artifacts; education and training for Afghan archivists, librarians, and museum professionals; new scholarship; scholarly translations; archaeology projects; educational projects in U.S. schools, colleges, and universities for every level, K-16; and public programs conducted by U.S. libraries, museums and historical societies, including exhibitions, film, radio, and Internet-based programs. On-site work in Afghanistan is contingent upon security; applicants should consult the updated travel advisories and warnings issued by the State Department through American Citizens Services at 202-647-5225 or 202-647-3000 (fax).

Other NEH Fellowships:

Fellowships for Research on Italian Cultural Heritage. NEH and the Consiglio delle Ricerche (CNR) of the government of Italy are cooperating in support of scholarly research. The Endowment invites applications for humanities research focusing on Italy’s cultural heritage in relation to that of the United States. Recipients will be awarded fellowships through the regular NEH fellowships program. CNR will award fellowships to Italian scholars for research on America’s cultural heritage in relation to Italy. NEH anticipates awarding up to three fellowships, as does CNR.

Main Eligibility Requirements: Scholars, educators and students. The fellowships are designed for researchers with advanced language skills whose research will require Use of data, sources, and comments in their original languages, or whose research requires interviews onsite in direct one-on-one contact. Fellows may undertake their projects in Japan, the United States, or both, and may include work in other countries for comparative purposes. For the Afghanistan programs, applicants are urged... to discuss their project with a program officer or send a preliminary proposal by mail or e-mail. All guidelines contain information about how to contact a program officer.

Dollar Value of Program(s): The Italy and the Japan Fellowships cover periods from six to twelve months at a stipend of $4,200 per month. The maximum stipend for both fellowships is $50,400 for a twelve-month tenure award period.

Nominations and deadlines: For the Italy and Japan Fellowships, the deadline is around the beginning of May.

1.3.14. Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Program

Brief background: In 1949, the Carnegie Corporation granted Princeton University $10,000 to extend its fellowship program nationwide. Now called the Woodrow Wilson Fellowship Program—in honor of Professor Whitney Oates, Princeton’s best-known leader, scholar and innovator. Such an effort remained small until 1957. In that year, the Ford Foundation granted $24.5 million to support 1,000 fellowships each year for five years, and the program became a new independent nonprofit, the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation

Purpose: Its mission is to identify and develop the best minds for the nation’s most important challenges. In these areas of challenge, the Foundation awards fellowships to enrich human resources, works to improve public policy, and assists organizations and institutions in enhancing practice in the U.S. and abroad

Area(s) of concentration/program emphasis: A variety fellowship programs geared at teaching, foreign affairs, women and gender and access and opportunity.

Program(s) offered: Six decades ago, the Woodrow Wilson Fellowships—a bold new initiative to meet the nation’s need for college teachers—began at Princeton University.
Today, the Foundation has a suite of Fellowships that support the development of future leaders at a variety of career stages in several critical fields.

Teaching

The Leonore Annenberg Teaching Fellowship—a national "Rhodes Scholarship" for teaching—will go to outstanding recent college graduates and career-changers who agree to work in urban and rural secondary schools serving high proportions of disadvantaged students.

The Woodrow Wilson Indiana Teaching Fellowship seeks to attract talented, committed individuals with backgrounds in mathematics, science, engineering, and technology into teaching in high-need Indiana secondary schools. The Woodrow Wilson-Rockefeller Brothers Fund Fellowships for Aspiring Teachers of Color seek to recruit, support, and retain individuals of color as K-12 public school teachers in the United States.

Foreign Affairs

The Thomas R. Pickering Undergraduate Foreign Affairs Fellowship prepares outstanding college students for the Foreign Service. The Thomas R. Pickering Graduate Foreign Affairs Fellowship offers master's students a gateway into the Foreign Service.

Women & Gender

The Woodrow Wilson Dissertation Fellowship in Women’s Studies has been the only national program supporting original, significant, interdisciplinary doctoral dissertations on women’s issues.

Area(s) of concentration/program emphasis: The areas of concentration listed below refer only to the MacArthur Foundation’s program on global security and sustainability that encompass its international grant programs. Please see their website for information on its domestic grant programs. The MacArthur Fellows, the foundation’s prestigious fellowship program, is not reviewed here. The fellows are selected by a group of nominators identified by the foundation and they do not accept any unsolicited nominations.

Program(s) offered: Organizational grants

The MacArthur Foundation’s Program on Global Security and Sustainability focuses on six issues, all of which fall within the realm of international education and development. While the grantees of the MacArthur Foundation work in 60 countries, the foundation has 4 focus countries where it maintains offices: India, Mexico, Nigeria, and Russia.

- Conservation and Sustainable Development (CSD) – Grant for this issue are provided for geography-based grant and for research and development. The website lists the geographic areas for its geography-based grants. For R&D, the focus is on Advancing Conservation in a Social Context and Adapting Conservation in the Face of Climate Change.
- Global Migration and Human Mobility – According the website, this program focuses on advancing new objectives:
  1. to develop improved understanding of global migration through support of policy-relevant empirical research and improved sources of data on migrant flows
  2. to encourage better governance of migration at global, regional, and national levels; and
  3. to stimulate new thinking on broader issues of global human mobility.
Grants are available to NGOs, research institutes, and universities. They are awarded for “research and policy studies, dissemination, and related activities.” The guidelines for the grant are currently under review and will be released in late 2010.
- Higher Education in Russia and Africa - Grants in this area are to help African universities build world-class departments and to develop the scholarly infrastructure of Russian higher education.
- Human Rights and International Justice
- International Peace and Security – The foundation has three strategies for this initiative:

EDHI Student Funding Sources Guide
1. Fostering cooperative responses to security challenges in the Asia-Pacific region
2. Reducing the global risks from nuclear weapons
3. Strengthening independent scientific advice and commentary on international security matters
   • Population and Reproductive Health (PRH) – The foundation focuses three countries for its PRH initiative: India, Mexico, and Nigeria. The grants focus on two priority themes:
     1. Maternal mortality and morbidity
     2. Young people’s sexual and reproductive health and rights

Main Eligibility Requirements: All prospective applicants must first review the Grantmaking Guidelines provided on the foundations website to determine if their program/institution falls within the guidelines, geographic focus, theme, and/or issue of the foci listed above. Once a prospective applicant has determined that they may be eligible for a grant, a letter of inquiry may be submitted to 4answers@macfound.org. The foundation’s website provides details and suggestions for what should be included in the letter of inquiry, including a cover page and the suggested format of the letter itself. It can take up to 8 weeks to evaluate the letter of inquiry.

Dollar Value of Program(s): $8,000 - $10 million

Nomination and deadlines: With few exceptions, there are no deadlines to submit a letter of inquiry. Please refer the website for these exceptions. For example, different regions within the CSD grants may have specific deadlines, while other regions may not have any.

We seek to prove that small amounts of philanthropic capital, combined with large doses of business acumen, can build thriving enterprises that serve vast numbers of the poor. Our investments focus on delivering affordable, critical goods and services – like health, water, housing and energy – through innovative, market-oriented approaches.

Purpose: Through the Fellows Program, Acumen Fund’s goal is to build an entrepreneurial bench of professional talent with strong operational skills, experience in low-income markets, and the moral imagination to build enterprises that meet the needs of low-income consumers. Each year, Acumen Fund recruits highly talented and passionate young professionals to reflect on their role as leaders, build their leadership capacity, and provide much needed management support to our investees.

Area(s) of concentration/program emphasis: Finance; Economics; International Business

Program(s) offered: Fellowship Program

Main Eligibility Requirements: Acumen Fund Fellows are talented individuals of diverse geographies, backgrounds, religions and ages. Past Fellows include those who have already decided on a career in venture philanthropy, those who are seeking a job at the highest levels in the corporate world and those budding social entrepreneurs who want to learn about managing organizations in demanding settings.

Dollar Value of Program(s): Acumen Fund provides Fellows with a stipend that covers reasonable monthly living costs for the duration of the yearlong program. Travel to New York for the first portion of the program, travel to and from field placements, travel to and from the midyear meeting, and costs associated with necessary visa arrangements will be covered by Acumen Fund. Acumen Fund will also arrange appropriate health insurance and computing services including a laptop and video camera for use during the fellowship year.

Nomination and deadlines: The application process for the Class of 2011-2012 will open on October 1, 2010.

Japanese Residencies Program 2011
Spend two weeks Teaching U.S. History in Japan [Pending Funding]. With the generous support of the Japan-United States Friendship Commission, the OAH and the Japanese Association for American Studies (JAAS) plan to send two American scholars to Japanese universities for two-week residencies from June 1-14, 2011. During their residencies, the American historians give lectures and seminars in English in their specialty. They also meet individually and in groups with Japanese scholars, graduate students, and undergraduate students studying American history and culture, and participate in the collegial life of their host institutions. The purpose of this exchange program is to facilitate scholarly dialogue and contribute to the expansion of scholarly networks among students and professors of American history in both countries. We are pleased to announce (pending funding) the fifteenth year of the competition. Round-trip airfare to Japan, housing, and modest daily expenses are covered by the award. Awardees are also encouraged to explore Japan before or after their two-week residency at their own expense. Applicants must be members of the OAH, have a Ph.D., and be scholars of American history. Applicants from previous competitions are welcome to apply again. Winners of the competition are expected to attend the 2011 OAH Annual Meeting in Houston, Texas, so that they can meet with visiting Japanese scholars and graduate students as well as the OAH/JAAS Historians’ Collaborative Committee.

The two host institutions in Japan for 2011 are:
*Hitotsubashi University (Tokyo, Japan) is seeking a specialist in the history of race and gender.
*The University of Kitakyushu (Fukuoka, Japan) is seeking a specialist in American Jewish history.

Note: If the host university cannot offer housing, applicants are expected to pay hotel expenses from the daily stipend.
Applications must be sent in Microsoft Word format by Friday, October 8, 2010, to the chair of the selection committee: Professor Andrea Geiger at aageiger@sfu.ca. Details at the website http://www.oah.org/activities/awards/japan/2011/index.html

German Historical Institute Doctoral and Postdoctoral Fellowships

The GHI awards short-term fellowships to German and American doctoral students as well as postdoctoral scholars in the fields of German history, the history of German-American relations, and the history of the role of Germany and the U.S.A in international relations. These fellowships are also available to German doctoral students and postdoctoral scholars in the field of American history. The fellowships are Usually granted for periods of one to six months but, depending on the funds available, can be extended by one or more months. The research projects must draw upon primary sources located in the United States. The GHI will not provide funding for preliminary research, manuscript composition or the revision of manuscripts. It will give clear priority to those post doctoral projects that are designed for the “second book”. The monthly stipend is EURO 1,700 for doctoral students and EURO 2,950 for postdoctoral scholars from European institutions; students and scholars based at North American institutions will receive a stipend of $1,900 or $3,150 respectively. In addition, fellowship recipients based in Germany will receive reimbursement for their roundtrip airfare to the U.S. The deadline for applications is October 15, 2010. Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a copy of your last diploma, project description (3,000 words), research schedule for the fellowship period, and at least one letter of reference. While applicants may write in either English or German, we recommend that they use the language in which they are most proficient. They will be notified about the outcome approximately two months after the deadline. Please send applications electronically in PDF or Word format via e-mail to fellowships@ghi-dc.

2.2.7. American Councils for International Education

Brief background: The American Councils (ACTR/ACCELS), is an international not-for-profit organization that believes in the fundamental role of education in fostering positive change for individuals, institutions and societies.

Purpose: The Councils advance education and research worldwide through international programs that provide the global perspective essential for academic and professional excellence.

Area(s) of concentration/program emphasis: Russian, Eastern European and Eurasian Studies

Technical Assistance: Empowering People and Nations through Knowledge

American Councils is an ideal partner to help achieve mission-oriented goals in the countries of Eastern Europe and Eurasia. We have conducted education programs since 1974, and we are the only organization with all the necessary resources in place. American Councils established its first permanent representation in Moscow in 1976, and now operates programmatic and administrative offices in eighteen countries of the region.

American Councils capabilities are diverse and include: (a) Access to Education/Rural Education (b) Administrator Training, (c) Curriculum Development/Textbooks, (d) Information and Communication Technology (ICT), (e) National Assessment Programs, (f) Project Monitoring and Evaluation, (g) Study Tours and Fellowships, (h) Teacher Training; (i) Test Development and Administration; (j) Training of Trainers

Partnerships

ACIE works with the National Assessment of Educational Progress (NAEP) Group, the National Board for Professional Teachers Standards, and the U.S.–EU–NIS Conference on the Harmonization of Educational Standards. American Councils was a major contributor to the National Standards for Foreign Language Learners and the Russian Language Curricular Framework for High School and College Russian in the United States. Over the past decade American Councils has collaborated with Eurasian Ministries of Education in planning and developing educational systems. Recent projects have included joint conferences, symposia, and publications on classroom-based teaching methods, technology in classroom teaching, distance learning, and outcomes-based learning in Azerbaijan (2002), Belarus (2000, 1999), Kazakhstan (1999), Russia (2001, 1998), Slovakia (1999), Ukraine (2001), and Uzbekistan (2001).
In close cooperation with the Ministries of Education of Belarus, Kyrgyzstan, Russia, and Ukraine, American Councils has worked in the design and administration of the well-known "Transformation of the Humanities and Social Sciences Initiatives,” sponsored by philanthropist George Soros. That project included substantial curriculum development, teacher training, school administrator training, textbook development, advisory, and programming elements. Among the successful projects administered by American Councils are advisory services in education reform, education management training, establishment of twinning relationships between Eurasian and U.S. educational institutions, large-scale data analysis of educational programs, professional and academic testing, development of school networks and resource centers, arranging student and faculty exchanges, and training delivery systems. ACIE fields teams of experts with both the knowledge and the experience to find an appropriate balance between theoretical strength and real life applicability in the conceptualization and day to day implementation of an assignment. A particular strength of American Councils is the depth and range of local expertise that it can apply to assignments within any Eurasian or Balkan country, as well as the extensive human resources that it can draw upon resulting from years of operations within each country.

Research Fellowships

Please see National Endowments of Humanities, page 23

With funds from the U.S. Department of State (Title VIII), U.S. Department of Education (Fulbright Hays), and the National Endowment for the Humanities, American Councils administers several major grants for independent, overseas research in the humanities and social sciences. Both Ph.D. candidates and post-doctoral scholars are eligible to apply for research support. Applicants should plan to spend at least two to three months in the field, preferably longer. In recent years, American Councils scholars have conducted independent research in Albania, Azerbaijan, Armenia, Bulgaria, Bosnia-Herzegovina, Croatia, Georgia, Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Moldova, Montenegro, Romania, Russia, Serbia, Tajikistan, Ukraine, and Uzbekistan

ACTR Advanced Russian Language and Area Studies Program

American Councils’ longest-running study abroad program provides intensive Russian-language immersion for U.S. undergraduate and graduate students in Russia.

ACTR Eurasian Regional Language Program

Since 1996, CIES has been a division of the Institute of International Education (IIE), a premier nonprofit educational and cultural exchange organization established in 1919.

Purpose:
CIES maintains deep ties with the higher education community in the United States and abroad, including individual universities and colleges, major scholarly organizations, and academic associations. CIES also collaborates with a network of bi-national Fulbright Commissions in 50 countries and 90 U.S. diplomatic posts around the world. Since its inception, CIES has conducted a rigorous, annual peer review process that assures the competitive selection of scholars for lecture and research awards. Together, CIES and IIE create effective synergies across continents. Both IIE and CIES work with the U.S. Department of State and with many other governments, foundations, corporations, colleges and universities, international organizations, and generous individuals, to provide educational exchange and development training opportunities for students, scholars and professionals worldwide.
Area(s) of concentration/program emphasis: vary
Program(s) offered: Fulbright Senior Scholar and other related academic exchange programs for university faculty & staff (U.S. and foreign nationals)

U.S. Scholars:

2.2.39.1. Traditional Fulbright Scholar Program

The traditional Fulbright Scholar Program sends 800 U.S. faculty and professionals abroad each year. Grantees lecture and conduct research in a wide variety of academic and professional fields.

2.2.39.2. NCS Scholar Program

Each year the NCS Scholar Program brings together approximately thirty outstanding research scholars and professionals from the U.S. and abroad. Under the guidance of an appointed Distinguished Scholar Leader, NCS Scholars engage in collaborative, multidisciplinary examination of a topic of universal concern and together seek solutions to critical issues affecting all humankind.

2.2.39.3. Fulbright Specialists Program

The Fulbright Specialists Program is designed to provide short-term academic opportunities (two to six weeks) for U.S. faculty and professionals. Shorter grant lengths give specialists greater flexibility to pursue a grant that works best with their current academic or professional commitments.

2.2.39.4. Fulbright Distinguished Chairs Program

Awards in the Fulbright Distinguished Chairs Program are viewed as among the most prestigious appointments in the Fulbright Scholar Program. Candidates should be senior scholars and have a significant publication and teaching record.

2.2.39.5. Fulbright International Education Administrators Program

These IEA seminars are designed to introduce participants to the society, culture and higher education systems in Germany, Japan or Korea through campus visits, meetings with foreign colleagues and government officials, attendance at cultural events and briefings on education. Participants gain new perspective on the need to internationalize U.S. campuses and insight into how it can be done.

2.2.39.6. Fulbright German Studies Seminars

Participate in a group seminar on current German society and culture. Participants of the Fulbright German Studies Seminars will examine the political, social and economic institutions of Germany. Each seminar has a specific thematic focus. The program will begin in Berlin and include visits to other cities in eastern and western Germany.

Non-U.S. Scholars

2.2.39.7. Scholar Program
Each year some 800 faculty and professionals from around the world receive Fulbright Scholar grants for advanced research and university lecturing in the United States. Individuals who meet the eligibility requirements apply for grants through the Fulbright commission/foundation or public affairs section of the U.S. embassy in their home countries.

2.2.39.8. Fulbright Visiting Specialists Program
The Fulbright Visiting Specialists Program is designed to promote understanding of the Muslim World and civilization by providing opportunities for U.S. higher educational institutions to host specialists from the Muslim World for short-term programs of intensive lecturing and public outreach.

2.2.39.9. Fulbright Scholar-in-Residence Program
The Worldwide Fulbright Scholar-in-Residence Program brings visiting scholars and professionals from abroad to lecture at U.S. colleges and universities for one semester or one academic year. Fulbright Scholars-in-Residence can have a significant impact on U.S. colleges and universities.

2.2.39.10. Occasional Lecturer Program
The CIES provides travel awards through the Occasional Lecturer Program (OLP), which enable Fulbright Visiting Scholars who are currently in the U.S. to accept guest-lecturing invitations at colleges and universities.

2.2.39.11. European Union Scholar-in-Residence Program
The European Union Scholar-in-Residence (EU SIR) Program is designed to strengthen expertise in European Union affairs. Through an arrangement with the European Union, grants are available to bring European scholars specializing in EU affairs to U.S. campuses as resident fellows for one term of the academic year.

2.2.40. Council on Foreign Relations (CFR)

Brief background: The Council on Foreign Relations is an independent, nonpartisan membership organization, think tank, and publisher dedicated to being a resource for its members, government officials, business executives, journalists, educators and students, civic and religious leaders, and other interested citizens in order to help them better understand the world and the foreign policy choices facing the United States and other countries. The CFR focuses on interested citizens in order to help them better understand the world and the foreign policy choices facing the United States and other countries. Founded in 1921, the Council takes no institutional positions on matters of policy.

Purpose: The Council carries out its mission by (1) maintaining a diverse membership, including special programs to promote interest and develop expertise in the next generation of foreign policy leaders; (2) Convening meetings at its headquarters in New York and in Washington, DC, and other cities where senior government officials, members of Congress, global leaders, and prominent thinkers come together with Council members to discuss and debate major international issues; (3) supporting a Studies Program that fosters independent research, enabling Council scholars to produce articles, reports, and books and hold roundtables that analyze foreign policy issues and make concrete policy recommendations; and publishing Foreign Affairs, the preeminent journal of international affairs and U.S. foreign policy;

Area(s) of concentration/program emphasis: International Affairs,
Career/Professional Development
Program(s) offered: International Affairs Fellowship Programs, IAF in Japan and in India

2.2.41. CFR International Affairs Fellowships

Brief background: Launched in 1967, the International Affairs Fellowship Program is designed to advance the professional development of outstanding young Americans between the ages of 27 and 35. Each year, approximately ten men and women receive the opportunity to broaden their experience in the field of international affairs through this unique program. The fellowships seek to bridge the gap between thought and action in foreign policy by supporting both a variety of policy studies and active exposure to policymaking. The distinctive character of the program lies in the contrasting experiences it provides at the juncture of policy research and policy formulation. Thus, it encourages academics and others from the private sector to serve in a policy-oriented environment through operational experience in public service. Conversely, it permits government officials on leave to study key issues in a scholarly atmosphere free from operational pressure.

2.2.41.1. International Affairs Fellowship in Japan

In 1997, the Council established a new International Affairs Fellowship in Japan, sponsored by Hitachi, Ltd., to enable a number of outstanding young American leaders and thinkers to expand their intellectual and professional horizons by working and living in Japan. Fellowships are intended for American citizens between the ages of 27 and 45. The program seeks to cultivate American understanding of Japan and to strengthen communication between emerging leaders in the two countries. The goal of the Hitachi Fellowship is to strengthen the U.S.-Japan relationship by expanding American understanding of Japan and enhancing communication among Americans and Japanese on global problems. In this context, the program seeks to address the continuing imbalance in opportunities for Americans and Japanese to get to know each other’s societies and cultures. Tens of thousands of Japanese come to the United States each year to study and work, but only a small number of Americans study or work in Japan. Although this imbalance is difficult to redress on a quantitative basis, the Hitachi Fellowship program seeks to have a positive impact by giving Americans with great leadership capacity the opportunity to gain an in-depth understanding of Japan and to develop close relationships with their Japanese counterparts. To achieve these objectives, great emphasis is placed in the design of the program on ensuring (1) that the selection process attracts the best qualified candidates; (2) that the selected fellows spend an adequate period of time in Japan to achieve the program's purposes; and (3) that they have the opportunity to work together with leaders in their respective fields in Japan. The basic term of the fellowship is one year, with a minimum of three months to pursue a program of the fellows’ own design consisting of policy oriented research or related professional activity (see Eligibility). To assure that the fellows spend their time in Japan fruitfully and come into contact with their professional peers, the Council assists Fellows in arranging affiliation with academic, governmental, or private sector institutions in Japan appropriate to their professional interests (see Cooperating Japanese Institutions). Hitachi, Ltd. assists the fellows, as requested, in locating housing and getting settled in the Japanese environment (see Living in Japan). Fellowships cover living expenses in Japan plus international transportation, health and travel insurance, and necessary research expenses.
2.2.41.2. International Affairs Fellowship in India
(First year sponsored by E.L. Rothschild through the ERANDA Foundation)

In 2008, the Council created an International Affairs Fellowship (IAF) in India program with the first year sponsored by E.L. Rothschild through the ERANDA Foundation. Modeled after CFR's successful IAF in Japan established over a decade ago, the IAF in India enables several outstanding young leaders to expand their professional horizons and enhance their understanding of India by spending up to a year on policy oriented research or related professional activity in India. CFR offers a number of these grants to candidates between the ages of 27 and 45 (inclusive) drawn from academia (including think tanks), government institutions (including the executive and legislative branches at the federal, state, and local levels), the business community, the media, and religious and congregational communities. The fellowships will be awarded on the basis of their academic and professional accomplishments and promise, and on the merits of the specific research or action projects that they propose for their stays in India. The basic term of the fellowship is one year, with a minimum of three months to pursue a program of the fellows' own design consisting of policy oriented research or related professional activity. The fellowship will cover living expenses in India plus international transportation and necessary research expenses.

Since Medtronic was founded in 1949, we have contributed more than $400 million in Medtronic Foundation grants, Medtronic cash contributions and medical device donations to improve the health of people and communities. We're passionate about improving the health of people and communities where we can make unique and positive contributions. To help our community partners make the greatest impact, we focus in these three areas: (1) Improving the health of people with chronic diseases; (2) Educating future generations of scientific innovators and (3) Enhancing the communities where we live and work.
Growing to Serve Our Global Community. That's what we've discovered as we expanded the Medtronic Foundation's reach to meet the increasing needs of our worldwide community. The work we do in our focus areas of health, education and community has an impact on more countries and cultures than ever before. Creating local solutions to global issues means we must do things differently to bridge languages, cultural practices, currencies and time zones. Fortunately, the values by which we operate - building partnerships, being inclusive, empowering others - are fundamental to the needs of people everywhere.

2.2.116. LASPAU (Academic and Professional Programs for the Americas)

Brief background: LASPAU is a nonprofit organization affiliated with Harvard University and governed by an independent, inter-American board of trustees. LASPAU designs, develops, and implements academic and professional programs to benefit the Americas.

Purpose: LASPAU provides access to global education opportunities, stimulates knowledge and transfer, and promotes intercultural understanding throughout the Americas.

Area(s) of concentration/program emphasis: Scholarships, Fellowships and Grants

Program(s) offered:
LASPAU has collaborated with the Department of State since 1975 in the administration of the Faculty Development Program, bringing more than 150 educators each year from Latin America and the Caribbean to the United States. (please refer to LASPAU under the section of U.S. Private and Non-Profit Foundations and Organizations). A majority of the program's grantees study at the master's level; however, doctoral and non-degree study is also supported. Faculty are selected for their potential to contribute to their disciplines as well as to their academic institutions. After their studies in the United States, grantees resume teaching, research, and, in some cases, administrative positions at their home institutions, sharing the benefits of their educational experience.

2.2.116.1. Grants administered by LASPAU and listed by country:

LASPAU itself does not offer grants, scholarships, fellowships, or loans. Those interested in applying for a LASPAU-administered program should apply directly to the sponsoring agencies and should contact those agencies to request information on criteria for eligibility and other application-related information. 2.2.116.2. Grant Resources

Below is a list of study and research grants, fellowships, and funds available to international students. The websites associated with these opportunities are not affiliated with or maintained by LASPAU, with the exception of the Border Ozone Reduction and Air Quality Improvement Program.
American AAUW Educational Foundation Fellowships and Grants
International Fellowships are awarded for full-time study or research to women who are not U.S. citizens or permanent residents. Both graduate and postgraduate study at accredited institutions are supported. Applicants must have earned the equivalent of a U.S. bachelor’s degree. Selection criteria include an outstanding academic record, professional potential, and the potential of the field of study to improve lives of women and girls in the country of origin. Preference is given to women residing in their home countries at the time of application.

Border Ozone Reduction and Air Quality Improvement Program
LASPAU has received a grant from InterGen Services, Inc. to establish the Border Ozone Reduction and Air Quality Improvement Program. The three-year program will examine effective, scientifically based and measurable methods to reduce ozone creation and improve air quality along the border region of Imperial County, California, and Mexicali, Baja California.

Center for Inter-American Studies and Programs (CEPI) at ITAM Resident Fellowship Program
CEPI, with the support of the Ford Foundation, invites applications from professionals of diverse disciplines and sectors to participate in its Resident Fellowship program for 2004, based at the Instituto Tecnológico Autónomo de México (ITAM), located in Mexico City. CEPI is offering a limited number of Resident Fellowships annually to nationals of any country from the following sectors: academic; public sector, diplomatic, and intergovernmental organizations; and civil society organizations, including the media.

FINAID: The Financial Aid Information Page
This page provides links to sources of information about student financial aid. It is maintained by Mark Kantrowitz, author of The Prentice Hall Guide to Scholarships and Fellowships for Math and Science Students, as a service to students and universities, and is sponsored by the National Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators (NASFAA). Of particular interest are the links to Scholarships, Fellowships, Grants, Contests, Tuition Payment Plans, Study Abroad, Exchange Programs, Lenders, and Guarantors.

The Ford Foundation
The Ford Foundation's International Fellowships Program (IFP) provides graduate level fellowships to exceptional non-U.S. nationals. Fellows will be selected based on their leadership potential, academic achievements, and commitment to social change. IFP encourages applicants from diverse social groups and communities who may not have access to higher education in their own countries. For further information, go to the Ford Foundation site (above) and click on the International Fellowships Program link.

The Foundation Center
This is a one-stop shopping site for institutional grant-seekers. Its home page is well-organized and comprehensive, including overseas sources of grants.
FUNED Programa de Crédito Educativo
FUNED es una Asociación Civil filantrópica, establecida bajo las leyes mexicanas y autorizada para operar un programa de crédito educativo. The Inter-American Agency for Cooperation and Development (IACD) of the Organization of American States (OAS)
The Inter-American Agency for Cooperation and Development (IACD) of the Organization of American States (OAS) administers provides several hundred fellowships for graduate studies and research, scholarships for undergraduate studies at universities through the region and awards for specialized, short-term training at educational institutions and training centers in member and observer states. Fellowship, scholarship and training award programs are managed by the Division of Human Development of the Department of Information Technology for Human Development, Inter-American Agency for Cooperation and Development.

Kellogg Institute Visiting Residential Fellowship Competition
The Institute seeks scholars of high accomplishment and promise whose work and presence will contribute creatively to its major research themes. It welcomes applications from candidates of any country who hold a Ph.D. or equivalent degree in any discipline of the social sciences or history.

Margaret McNamaara Memorial Fund
The MMMF was founded in 1981 in memory of Margaret Graig McNamara, honorary president of WBFN from 1972 to 1981. Every year, the Fund gives grants to five or six young women from developing countries engaged in studies for a degree in the United States. They demonstrate a commitment to working for the benefit of women and children in the developing world, and plan to return to their countries within approximately two years of receiving the grant.

Russell E. Train Fellowships
Effective policy, education, fieldwork, and other conservation initiatives depend on sound technical knowledge and skills. Through Russell E. Train Fellowships, EFN invests in the academic training of conservationists in Africa, Asia, and Latin America in a wide variety of disciplines so that they may gain the knowledge and skills necessary to manage natural resources in complex contexts. Train Fellows receive financial support for education-related costs for a period of up to two years. Study can be at the master's or doctoral level and can take place anywhere in the world. Train Fellowships are highly competitive—in 2003 EFN awarded 36 fellowships from a pool of over 700 applicants in 13 countries.

The Scholar Ship Diversity Grants for Latin American and Caribbean Students
The Scholar Ship is a semester-long academic program aboard a dedicated passenger ship that traverses the globe as an oceangoing campus. Students and staff from around the world come together to form a transnational learning community designed to develop their intercultural competence and leadership skills. The Scholar Ship is an international education initiative developed in collaboration with seven international universities and a host of multinational organizations. Through the Institute of International Education, The Scholar Ship is awarding $10,000 U.S.D grants to students from Latin America and the Caribbean. Undergraduate and postgraduate candidates are welcome. These awards will cover only a portion of the program fees, travel costs, and personal spending required to participate in the program. Grants will be awarded to students with a demonstrated record of academic achievement and economic need.

2.2.119. Longview Foundation

Brief background: Founded by William L. Breese, the Longview Foundation for World Affairs and International Understanding has been helping young people in the United States learn about world regions and global issues since 1966. At the dawn of the 21st century, knowledge of other peoples, economies, languages and international affairs has become a necessity for every child. Eliminating global poverty, solving international conflicts, working in new markets, and addressing global health and environmental problems require international knowledge and cooperation.

Purpose: The Longview Foundation wants to ensure that students from pre-school to high school have the opportunity to develop this crucial 21st century expertise.

Area(s) of Concentration/program emphasis: The Foundation supports (1) state coalitions of leaders in education, government, business and community organizations committed to improving international education for young people in their state; (2) strategies that help future teachers learn to teach the global dimensions of their subjects and develop their students' intercultural skills; (3) innovative activities that address gaps in knowledge or capacity and have the potential for broad impact.

Program(s) offered: Various.

Program Guidelines: The foundation has identified the priorities below for its 2009 grant-making.

2.2.119.1. State Coalitions for International Education

State leaders across the country are redesigning education systems to prepare students for success in the 21st Century. The main goal of Longview’s state grant program is to assist these efforts by integrating international knowledge, skills, and perspectives into K-12 classrooms and learning communities as part of this redesign process. This program promotes systemic international education improvements through activities that have the potential to stimulate state policy actions and program reforms that will reach large numbers of students. Funding supports efforts to build partnerships that bring together education, government, business, and community organizations to champion international education statewide and connect international education activities to larger school reform efforts to promote a rigorous and relevant education. Grants in this category are made through a Request for Proposals to states active in the States Network on International Education in the Schools. For information about the network, please contact the foundation at globaled@longviewfdn.org

2.2.119.2. Internationalizing Teacher Preparation

The program to internationalize pre-service teacher education supports activities to ensure that P-12 teachers in all subject areas begin their careers with: (1) Knowledge of the international dimensions of their subject matter and a range of global issues; (2) Pedagogical skills to teach their students to analyze primary sources from around the world, appreciate multiple points of view, and (3) recognize stereotyping. A commitment to assisting students to become responsible citizens of the world and their own communities.

Grants are made to encourage teacher preparation programs to adopt a range of strategies on the home campus to develop the global expertise of future teachers. These include: (1) Recruiting students with international interests into teaching; (2) Providing professional development for faculty and advisors; (3) Supporting revisions to the general and professional education requirements and courses for pre-service teachers; (4) Creating opportunities for future teachers to do fieldwork in internationally themed classrooms or multicultural communities in the United States, (5) Using technology to bridge geographic and cultural barriers; (6) Modernizing and expanding programs for prospective world language teachers.

2.2.119.3. Innovations in International Education

This program supports strategic, field-building activities that help address gaps in knowledge or capacity. Projects will also be reviewed for their potential to have a broad impact and remain sustainable beyond the grant period. The foundation is particularly interested in the following areas: (1) Bringing international knowledge and skills to out-of-school time programming; (2) Using technology in innovative ways to reach students and teachers; (3) Including international children’s literature in literacy building initiatives; (4) Connecting the study of world languages with internationalization efforts in other curriculum areas; (5) Promoting system-wide reforms in international curriculum and assessment; and (6) Bringing global education to large numbers of students and teachers, especially those in low-income communities. Main Eligibility Requirements: vary

Dollar Value of Programs(s): Most grants will be between $15,000 and $30,000. Given the current economic situation, the Longview Foundation expects to make fewer grants at the top of this range in 2009.
Nomination and Deadlines: The deadline for proposals invited for the fall grant cycle is September 10, 2010; Spring, 2011 deadline dates have not been announced. Check website for further information

2.2.121. National Endowment for Democracy

Brief background: The National Endowment for Democracy (NED) is a private, nonprofit foundation dedicated to the growth and strengthening of democratic institutions around the world. Each year, with funding from the U.S. Congress, NED supports more than 1,000 projects of non-governmental groups abroad who are working for democratic goals in more than 90 countries
Purpose: NED administers the Reagan-Fascell Democracy Fellowships. This program is an international exchange program that offers practitioners, scholars, and journalists from around the world the opportunity to spend five months at the National Endowment for Democracy (NED), in Washington DC, in order to undertake independent research on democracy in a particular country or region.
Area(s) of concentration/program emphasis: Political Science; Economics; Area Studies; Journalism and other fields (check website) are eligible
Program(s) offered: Democracy Fellowships
Main Eligibility Requirements: While the program is intended primarily for individuals from developing and aspiring democracies, distinguished scholars from the United States and other established democracies are eligible to apply. Practitioners and journalists are expected to have substantial work experience in their fields, while scholars are expected to have a Ph.D., or academic equivalent, at the time of application. The program does not fund professional training, fieldwork, or students working toward a degree. A working knowledge of English is required.
Dollar Value of Program(s): Each fellow receives a monthly stipend for living expenses, plus health insurance and reimbursement for travel to and from Washington, D.C., at the beginning and end of the fellowship period. Fellows also receive a fully equipped office and research support through the Forum’s Democracy Resource Center and the Research Associates Program
Nomination and deadlines: November 1, 2010
Contact Person and email address: NED Fellowships Coordinator at fellowships@ned.org.
Agency/Organization website: www.ned.org

2.2.122. Ricci for Chinese-Western Cultural History, University of San Francisco

Brief background: The Ricci Institute annually awards several travel grants to doctoral candidates, post-doctoral researchers, and established scholars in the United States (but from outside of northern California) to travel to the University of San Francisco during the academic year to use the Ricci Institute Collection for their research
Purpose: see above
Area(s) of concentration/program emphasis: Topics related to Chinese-Western cultural exchange, Jesuit interaction with China from the late Ming through early 20th century, and/or the history of Christianity in China
Program(s) offered: Travel Grants; Malatesta Scholarship for Chinese-Western Cultural Studies
Main Eligibility Requirements: Travel Grants: Applicants must be U.S. residents or holders of valid non-resident visas; Scholarship: (1) young Chinese graduate students studying at a university in the People’s Republic of China (PRC) who will use the funds to assist them in the completion of doctoral level work on the history of Christianity in China or (2) postdoctoral researchers affiliated with a university or research institute in the PRC who will use the funds to assist them in the completion of postdoctoral level work on the history of Christianity in China
Dollar Value of Program(s): Travel Grants: maximum of $1,000; Scholarship: $1,000-$4,000
Nomination and deadlines: Travel Grants: October 15, 2010 (spring, 2011); June 15, 2011 (Fall, 2011); Scholarship: June 15, 2011
Contact Person and email address: Xiaoxin Wu, Ed.D, Director, at wu@U.S.fca.edu
2.2.123. Spencer Foundation

Brief background: Lyle M Spencer established The Foundation in 1962. The Foundation received its major endowment when Mr Spencer passed in 1968 and it began formal grant making in 1971.

Purpose: The Foundation is intended to investigate ways in which education, broadly conceived, can be improved around the world.

Area(s) of concentration/program emphasis: Beginning in 2006, the Research Grants began accepting applications with one or more of four areas of inquiry: a) the relation between education & social opportunity; (2) organizational learning in schools, school systems and higher education institutions; (3) teaching, learning & instructional resources, and (4) purposes and values of education.

Program(s) offered: Dissertation Fellowship Program; Exemplary Dissertation Awards (EDA); NAEd Spencer Fellowships; Spencer Fellows at CASBS; Research Grants

Dollar Value of Program(s): vary

Main Eligibility Requirements: Applicants need not be citizens of the United States; however, they must be candidates for the doctoral degree at a graduate school within the United States. These fellowships are not intended to finance data collection or the completion of doctoral coursework, but rather to support the final analysis of the research topic and the writing of the dissertation. For this reason, all applicants must document that they will have completed all pre-dissertation requirements by June 1, 2011 and must provide a clear and specific plan for completing the dissertation within a one or two-year time frame.

3.20. Kuwait

3.20.1. Kuwait Fund for Arab Economic Development – (KFAED)

Brief background: KFAED was set up in 1961 to extend foreign aid to Arab, Islamic, and Third World countries, primarily in Asia and Africa.

The Kuwait Fund for Arab Economic Development (KFAED), commonly known as the Kuwait Fund, was the first foreign-aid vehicle entirely financed by a developing state. It is the State of Kuwait’s agency for the provision and administration of financial and technical assistance to developing countries. Established to aid other Arab countries, KFAED’s recipient list grew following the rapid rise in world oil prices in the early 1970s to include developing countries around the world. KFAED supplies project aid, mostly in the form of concessional loans, technical assistance, and training. In July 1974, the scope of the Fund’s activity was extended to the rest of the developing world (from its original mandate of solely helping countries in the Arab World) and its capital increased from KWD 200 million to KWD 1000 million.

4.1.49.9. Queen’s College Graduate Scholarships (UK)
Brief background: The “Hall of the Queen’s Scholars at Oxford” was founded in 1341 by Robert de Eglesfield, a chaplain in the household of Queen Philippa, who named it in her honor. He envisaged an establishment of fellows, chaplains, ‘poor boys’ and various officials and servants, headed by a Provost. Membership was to be open, but with a preference for inhabitants of Cumberland and Westmorland. Initially Queen’s was poor, but the endowment slowly grew. Crucially, in 1343, Philippa secured for Queen’s a small hospital in Southampton with its lands, destined to be the basis of much of the College’s prosperity in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries as Southampton Docks expanded and surrounding farmland was developed.

Purpose: Scholarships are awarded to graduate students pursuing studies at the Queen’s College, Oxford University.

Purpose: Since 1992, Eurasia Foundation has invested more than $400 million through more than 8,400 grants and operating programs in Afghanistan, Armenia, Azerbaijan, Belarus, Georgia, Kazakhstan, the Kyrgyz Republic, Moldova, Russia, Tajikistan, Turkmenistan, Ukraine and Uzbekistan.

Area(s) of concentration/program emphasis: Since 2004, EF has created four autonomous foundations able to address local needs and cross-border issues. These organizations represent a new type of institution for the region, combining local knowledge and leadership with international best practices of program management and financial stewardship, all carried out under the governance of international boards of trustees.

Program(s) offered: Variety of organizational grants

These four new foundations have joined with Eurasia Foundation, their American counterpart, to form the Eurasia Foundation Network. Working together enables U.S. to improve the quality of our programs, increase exchanges among local and international institutions throughout the region and multiply our donors’ social return on their financial investment.

New Eurasia Foundation (FNE)
Launched in Moscow in 2004, FNE enhances people’s lives through effective social and economic development programs carried out at the regional and federal levels of Russia. Strategic program areas include enhancing the social and human capital of the Russian Federation in the areas of youth, education, migration, housing and urban development and media, and improving local competitiveness and potential for technological innovation.

Eurasia Foundation of Central Asia (EFCA)
In 2005 Eurasia Foundation of Central Asia was registered as a local entity to operate programs throughout Central Asia. EFCA mobilizes public and private resources to help citizens of Central Asia design and execute projects that strengthen their communities and improve their civic and economic well-being.

Eurasia Partnership Foundation (EPF)
EF launched Eurasia Partnership Foundation in 2007 to serve Armenia, Azerbaijan and Georgia. EPF facilitates citizen monitoring of business, government and donors, encourages the understanding and practice of local corporate philanthropy and develops the skills and vision for youth as advocates for and implementers of social change through youth-run grantmaking.

East Europe Foundation (EEF)
In 2007 EF launched the East Europe Foundation, based in Kyiv, Ukraine. EEF builds the capacity of institutions and establishes local partnerships through grant programs and technical assistance, contributing to effective local governance, high-quality education programs and more socially responsible corporations and philanthropic organizations. EEF focuses on improving the conditions needed to sustain local partnerships and empower citizens to participate in improving their lives.

5.1.38. Japan Society for the Promotion of Science

Brief background: On October 1, 2003, the Japan Society for the Promotion of Science became an "independent administrative institution," turning an epochal leaf in its 72-year history of transition from first a private, nonprofit foundation to a quasi-government organization. Over this period, JSPS has, as a core agency promoting Japanese science, initiated and carried out a wide range of programs to advance scientific research, including research grants, researcher cultivation, and international exchange and cooperation. In addition, last year JSPS began performing the selection and evaluation functions of the 21st Century COE Program

Purpose: These programs were established to assist promising and highly qualified young foreign researchers wishing to conduct research in Japan

Area(s) of concentration/program emphasis: All disciplines

Program(s) offered:

Postdoctoral Fellowships for Foreign Researchers (Standard)
This program was established to assist promising and highly qualified young foreign researchers wishing to conduct research in Japan. It is aimed at providing opportunities for such researchers to, under the guidance of their hosts, conduct cooperative research with leading research groups in universities and other Japanese institutions, thereby permitting them to advance their own research while stimulating Japanese academic circles, particularly young Japanese researchers, through close collaboration in scientific activities. Such collaboration is also intended to advance scientific research in the counterpart countries. (Fellowships are awarded for a period of 12 to 24 months.)

Two application channels are provided: (1) Application through Open Recruitment in Japan (Application by a Japanese host researcher); (2) Application through an Overseas Nominating Authority<http://www.jsps.go.jp/english/e-fellow/long_list.html>.

Postdoctoral Fellowships for Foreign Researchers (Short-term)
This fellowship program was launched this year to provide special short-term quotas for North America and European researchers to experience firsthand the research and living environment in Japan.

JSPS Summer Program
The JSPS Summer Program provides opportunities for young pre- and post-doctoral researchers from North America and Europe to receive an orientation on Japanese culture and research systems and to pursue research under the guidance of host researchers at Japanese universities and research institutes over a period of two months during the summer.

Invitation Fellowship Program for Research in Japan
This program is designed to enable Japanese researchers to invite their foreign colleagues to Japan to participate in cooperative work and other academic activities. Researchers of all countries having diplomatic relations with Japan are eligible.

Postdoctoral Fellowships for Research Abroad
Under this program, fellowships are awarded to young Japanese postdoctoral researchers for conducting research at foreign universities or research institutions for a period of two years

Main Eligibility Requirements: Check website for individual program information

WASHINGTON, June 11, 2009; The Senator Paul Simon Study Abroad Foundation Act gained significant momentum yesterday as it passed the U.S. House of Representatives as part of the Foreign Relations Authorization Act for Fiscal Years 2010 and 2011 (H.R. 2410). The Foreign Relations Act, introduced last month by Representative Howard Berman (D-Calif.), is a comprehensive piece of legislation to enhance the U.S. foreign policy efforts of the U.S. Department of State and the Peace Corps. It also includes new initiatives like the Simon legislation that are aimed at advancing U.S. global engagement.

"NAFSA commends Representative Berman and the House of Representatives for their leadership on this legislation that provides a much-needed boost in our capacity to engage with the world," said NAFSA Executive Director and CEO Marlene M. Johnson. "We especially applaud the inclusion of the Simon Study Abroad Act, which will increase fourfold the number of students studying abroad each year in quality programs across the globe and will ensure that our college graduates have the skills they need to meet today's global demands."

The Senator Paul Simon Study Abroad Act is named for the late senator from Illinois, who believed that a more internationally educated citizenry would "lift our vision and responsiveness to the rest of the world." Based on his vision and the recommendations of the congressionally appointed Lincoln Commission, the Simon Act sets the goal that in 10 years' time at least one million American college students from diverse backgrounds will study abroad annually in locations across the globe, with an emphasis on destinations in developing countries. To achieve this goal, the legislation establishes an innovative new structure that will provide financial support to students to study abroad, while at the same time requiring U.S. higher education institutions to address the on-campus factors that currently impede students' ability to study abroad. "It is the Simon Act's innovative approach to leveraging institutional reform that will make it possible for this program to dramatically increase participation in study abroad and; to make it an integral part of the 21st-century education of American college students," Johnson said.

The Foreign Relations Act also contains other important investments critical to the effectiveness of U.S. public diplomacy, foreign policy, and national security efforts, such as: doubling the size of the Peace Corps; increasing the authorization for the U.S. Department of State's educational and cultural exchange programs; providing scholarships for students from various regions around the world to study in the U.S.; authorizing the hiring of an additional 1,500 foreign service officers over the next two years; improving the State Department's tools for recruiting and training these officers; and requiring the president to issue a report to Congress on plans to streamline U.S. export controls to better serve the needs of the U.S. scientific and research communities.

The legislation will now go to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee for a vote. The Senate version of the Senator Paul Simon Study Abroad Foundation Act of 2009 (S.473) was introduced by Senators Dick Durbin (D-Ill.) and Roger Wicker (R-Miss.) earlier this year.
APPENDIX VI THE GRANTSMANSHP CENTER

The Grantsmanship Center was founded in 1972 by Norton J. Kiritz to offer grantsmanship training to nonprofit and government agencies. Before this time, no such training existed and small organizations often lacked the skills to compete for grant opportunities. The Center began as a local project in Los Angeles, but as word of its alumni's successes spread, demand for trainings rapidly expanded. Soon organizations in other cities were asking to host training programs in their own communities. By 1975, The Grantsmanship Center was conducting more than 100 workshops a year across the country.

Many valuable resources for grantseekers have also been produced by The Grantsmanship Center (also known as TGCI) throughout its history. Program Planning and Proposal Writing (PP&PW), The Grantsmanship Center's proposal writing guide written by Norton J. Kiritz, is the most widely read publication in nonprofit history. There are more than a million copies of PP&PW in print- and scores of government, foundation, and corporate grantmakers have adopted it as their preferred application format. Furthermore, The Grantsmanship Center Newseasm also called Grantsmanship Center Magazine, has reached over 200,000 nonprofit and government agencies at its peak. These periodicals "paved the way for the journalists who today scrutinize charities and foundations with growing sophistication and skepticism," according to The Chronicle of Philanthropy. Archives are now available at the Library of Congress.

Today The Grantsmanship Centers conducts some 150 workshops annually in grantsmanship training, as well as earned income strategies for nonprofits. Each year, thousands of new graduates join our roster of more than 110,000 alumni. Graduates of The Grantsmanship Training Programs also receive a membership package that includes discounts on future trainings for themselves and colleagues, discounts on Grantsmanship Centers publications, access to our exclusive online databases of Government, Foundation and Corporate funding sources, and annual proposal reviews by workshop trainers.

There are also numerous resources for grantseekers available at no cost on tgci.com. These include daily grant announcements from the Federal Register, archives of The Grantsmanship Center Magazine, indexes of funding sources at the local, federal and international levels, and more. For more information contact The Grantsmanship Center at TGCI@tgci.com.
