Be it resolved that on February 8, 2013, the faculty and staff of the College of Education at the University of Maryland honored the life and professional career and acknowledge the death of Joseph Luetkemeyer, former faculty member in the Department of Industrial, Technological and Occupational Education Department.

Joseph Luetkemeyer was a Professor in the former Department of Industrial, Technological and Occupational Education. His major teaching and inquiry were in the historical and philosophical foundations of technology and its relation to education.

He was recognized for his skill and commitment to doctoral students – he mentored many! Following his retirement to Missouri, he continued teaching in his field. He was instrumental in the establishment and development of a technology program at a local community college in Missouri.

Joseph passed away in November 2012.

The College of Education is thankful for the services rendered by Dr. Joseph Luetkemeyer and extends its heartfelt condolences to his family, friends and colleagues.
